- American Sign Language Education Program – TCPCG
  The Teacher Certification Program for College Graduates (TCPCG) Master’s program is intended for students who have already completed an undergraduate degree in a major unrelated to education. Alternatively, students can enter the program for reasons other than standard teacher preparation. This route is available, for example, to individuals who are already teachers and may be seeking additional certification. Applicants to the program must have a bachelor’s degree from a regionally accredited institution and 39 semester hours of coursework that meets five of six of the following areas: (1) English; (2) Natural Sciences; (3) Mathematics; (4) Social Studies; (5) Foreign Language; or (6) Fine Arts. Applicants must have a three-semester hour U.S. History survey course. Additionally, applicants must complete a subject-area major in American Sign Language (ASL), which includes a minimum of thirty-six (36) credits. A minimum of twenty-four (24) credits in ASL and up to twelve (12) credits in related areas. It is strongly recommended that students complete a maximum number of courses in their major language, seize all opportunities to develop control of ASL, and pursue meaningful placement in an ASL rich environment prior to admission. Teacher candidates in ASL are required to pass the American Sign Language Proficiency Interview (ASLPI) before they can be recommended for state certification.

Requirements for American Sign Language (ASL) Education students in the TCPCG program include the following Professional Education Requirements: EDCI 5060, 5065, 5070, 5080, 5108, 5085, 5825, 5090, 5050, 5830, 5092, 5875, 5055, and a 3-credit content area elective.

- The Committee agreed that there is a growing interest and demand in ASL.
- A motion was made by Allison Lombardi to approve the 2 ASL programs and seconded by Ann Traynor. A unanimous vote was given, with Hannah Dostal abstaining (4 yes, 0 no, 1 abstain). We also secured an electronic vote from Mike Young so the final result was 5 votes in favor (5-0-1).

- EDLR 2XXX: Introduction to Service Learning

  Introduction to Service Learning will engage students in discussions and discourse in classroom sessions and direct-action service in their local communities. Service learning as a pedagogy aims for students to actively participate in curricula designed to challenge them to critically examine societal values and beliefs connected to community engagement. Additionally, service learning pushes students to explore the role of community engagement as civic responsibility and analyze the connection between civic responsibility and a healthy democracy. Through the intentional integration of classroom and community-based teaching and learning, this course will allow for students to expand upon knowledge of self, others, and the larger society. This course will also provide the opportunity for students to take part in an established UConn service learning program as a means to connect classroom learning with experiential learning.

- A motion was made by Allison Lombardi and seconded by Ann Traynor to approve this course. All voted in favor (5-0) to approve pending clarifications from Danielle DeRosa on the following (via email to Danielle from Casey Cobb):
1. Service learning 20-hour project:
   - The Committee wondered about how the 20-hour service learning experiences were going to be coordinated. We assumed it would be you (the instructor) who would work with the student to arrange a service learning project or at least coordinate with UCONN Community Outreach for any open slots. To what extent do you think you will place students through UCONN Community Outreach? We wondered if you should name them explicitly in the syllabus or course description, so students are aware of that resource ahead of time.
   - If you are working with Community Outreach for the 20-hour service learning projects, can they accommodate this demand for 20 hour projects? Just curious as we are familiar with longer term projects through them.
   - Would it help if students knew ahead of time from the course description or syllabus that travel may be provided for them to participate in their outreach projects? This may not be the case or you couldn’t promise it—which is okay—but we thought that might be an issue for students regardless. Another reason to consider naming Community Outreach in the syllabus is it might signal to students that travel will (possibly?) be made available.

2. Important - Grading scale:
   - Please change the grading scale in the syllabus to align with the University’s grading scale. Right now the syllabus has “70 or below=F”.

- EPSY 1460: Critical and Creative Thinking in the Movies
  Topics such as logical fallacies, influence, metacognition, problem solving, creative genius, personality, and motivation will be explored. Students will use readings and films to investigate the role and application of these topics on critical thinking and creativity.

  - The Committee discussed the list of required films and were concerned about the lack of diversity. Also noted was the fact the final exam was in multiple choice format which may deviate from fostering critical or creative thinking.
  - Allison Lombardi made a motion to approve this course and Hannah Dostal seconded. All members voted in favor (5-0) with a notation that the Committee will offer a recommendation to revisit their film list and consider expanding upon cultural and racial diversity.
  - Casey Cobb emailed James Kaufman and Johanna Tiarks who were fully receptive to this recommendation and had already made some changes to the list of movies.
